Conference Opposes the "Star Spangled Banner" as National Anthem

(Vote presented to Congress)

At a session of the Supervisors' National Conference held on March 29 a resolution was adopted protesting the passage of the bill by Congress which would adopt the "Star Spangled Banner" as the national anthem. Mabelle Glenn, retiring president, was chosen to forward a copy of the resolution to Congress, which is to consider the national anthem on April 17.

The resolution asserted that the song was the outgrowth of a single war-time event which cannot fully represent the spirit of a nation committed to peace and good will, and that, where as the approval of this bill would signify to our people and the world at large a unique endorsement of this song as embodying the ideals of our nation, that the music of this song, while thrilling and effective when sung on occasions of high patriotic fervor, is not suitable for frequent singing in school rooms and assemblage of many kinds where a national anthem is needed.

"Therefore," the resolution concluded, "the Music Supervisor's National Conference, with a membership of 7,400 and with the support of music educators who direct the musical activities of millions of children in our schools and deeply affect spiritual values in our communities, while recognizing the legitimate place of "The Star Spangled Banner" as one of our historic patriotic songs, vigorously opposes its adoption as our national anthem."

"America the Beautiful," the music of which is by Samuel A. Ward and the words by Katherine Lee Bates, was favored to replace "The Star Spangled Banner."

Walter Damrosch Talks on Radio for Schools

WALTER DAMROSCH addressed the conference on Tuesday and revealed that the number of school children listening in to his Music Appreciation Hour weekly has grown to a total estimated at 5,176,960.

Damrosch's address was made to the country's leading music educators. Many of them are promoting his concerts in the schools throughout the country. Damrosch was invited by the conference to discuss his plans for next season's series, so that arrangements may be made by the schools.

Special reports sent in by individual cities show that in New York City between 350 and 400 schools have been equipped with radio receiving sets. The superintendent of schools in Columbus, Kansas, reports the entire school system equipped with radios. Similar reports come from other centers.

"The eagerness with which the country is responding is no better shown than in a comparison of figures for the past two seasons. Last year a million and a half children listened in. Music is the one common ground on which all nationalities can meet. Acquainting so great a proportion of our children with the music of the great composers cannot fail but have a marked influence on the culture of many generations to come."

The admission is 50 cents couple, stage 75 cents.

Percy Scholes Addresses Conference

PERCY SCHOLES of London and Switzerland, eminent music critic and educationist, who was the guest of honor at the conference two years ago, addressed the conference on Tuesday afternoon. The theme of Mr. Scholes' address was "An International Movement in Musical Education—Is It Possible?" Mr. Scholes said:

"Is it possible? The question is, after all, needless, for the movement exists. It may not be a very big movement; it may not yet comprehend all nations. But it exists, nevertheless, and all it requires is to grow."

"It began two years ago, on this very spot, in a meeting of the Music Supervisors' National Conference. I was honored with the commission to present to the president and members of the Conference letters of greeting from one hundred of the leading musicians and musical educators of Britain. The wonderful reception this British gesture received by American colleagues led to an Anglo-American musical meeting at which the chief American speaker was that orator and statesman of American musical education, Dr. Frances Clark, an ideal ambadress, who at once endeared herself to her British musical sisters and brothers and did honor to the country she represented."

"The international movement in musical education has begun. It is well under way. Whither will it lead us? Nobody can say. But it seems that, at intervals of two years, we shall meet and traverse Europe, sometimes in one country and sometimes in another, making friends in each nation and learning what that nation has to tell us—yes, and not learning only, but, let us hope, teaching just a little also."

(excerpt from the Musical Courier)

Francis Macmillen Receives Plaudit of Middle West

FRANCIS MACMILLEN, noted violinist who will conduct master classes in this Institution this Summer, is receiving acclaim from critics and press all through the middle west where he is now on tour. The Omaha World-Herald declared "rarely in Omaha has an artist been acclaimed with so much warmth, spontaneity and enthusiasm. . . it was a true delight to hear this master again, and he created a profound impression by the noble dignity of his style, the compelling mastery of his dazzling technique, his exquisite translucent tone and the supreme elegance of his phrasing." Mr. Macmillen will arrive here in June and continue his teaching until August.

Interview with Mr. Percy Scholes, Distinguished Music Critic

IN a recent interview with a representative of the Cornell Sun, Mr. Percy Scholes, the distinguished music critic and author says that "America is much more advanced than Britain in that it provides for music as an integral part of general education, and as a fit subject for a liberal arts degree. The United States led the world in recognizing and meeting the need for more finished listeners. It is the country most successful in teaching music-loving men and women to understand and appreciate what they are drawn to naturally."

Keen Interest Shown In Annual Little Theatre Tournament

KEEN interest is being manifested by the High Schools throughout the State of New York and Pennsylvania in the seventh annual Little Theatre Tournament and Declamation Contest conducted under the auspices of the Williams School of Expression and Dramatic Art.

The dates set for the contests are May 7, 8, 9 and 10, and already twenty schools have entered the various contests, while each mail brings in more applications for admission.

The project was inaugurated seven years ago in the endeavor to cooperate with the present day Little Theatre and Community Theatre movements by encouraging this form of expression in the High Schools. From a very small beginning it has grown to be one of the largest of its kind. Last year fifty schools were represented in the Declamation Contest and twenty-one in the one-act play contest.

A number of graduates from this Institution will return at this time with students whom they have trained to enter the contests.

Over 7000 Music Supervisors Attend Conference in Chicago

EVERY state in the Union was represented at this conference. A brilliant array of speakers presented a panorama of the development of music education in the Schools and the possibilities of further progress. The conference votes for the substitution of "America the Beautiful" as the National Anthem. One of the main features of the meetings were the musical demonstrations. The next Conference, in 1932, will probably be held in Cleveland, O.

Freshmen Girls Victorious

THE girls' basketball season closed the week before vacation with three closely contested class games in which the Freshmen were victorious.

Since all the games up to this time had been conducted between numeral teams according to the Rogers System of selection and no outside practice of class teams had been arranged, there was little fore-warning of the outcome.

The scores were as follows: Freshmen 17, Sophomores 16; Juniors 24, Sophomores 16; Freshmen 18, Juniors 17. The teams were evenly matched in all the games, interest ran high, and competition was keen, affording the best and fastest games the girls have played all season.

Placement Bureau I. S. P. E.

THE Placement Bureau which has been inaugurated in the Ithaca School of Physical Education is proving very successful. All students who have been placed so far have received their opportunities through this bureau.

Treva Eicker has been appointed to a position in Oneonta, N. Y.; Milton Pope in Indian Lake, N. Y.; Marie Schramm in Newark, N. Y.; and Michael Spierdowis in Albion, N. Y.

Over 3,000 folders, with pictures and Seniors have been sent out to superintendents throughout the Eastern states, and requests for instructions in physical education are coming in daily in response to these efforts. It is hoped that by the end of May all students who are graduating this year will be placed by the Placement Bureau of the Ithaca School of Physical Education.

With woe of the world he was sick at heart,
When lo! He was met by a mighty song;
Its surge upbore him above the throng,
It left him clean and brave and strong;
Never again shall he hate the mart;
He yearns to give it the song of his heart."

"The Acquittal" Opens Tonight

Last of Series Featuring New York Actors

ALBERT MCGOVERN and Ethel Wayland, professional actors who together with carefully selected casts from the Williams School of Expression and Dramatic Art, have delighted Little Theatre patrons during the past two weeks, will make their final appearance in the stirring drama, "The Acquittal" opening tonight.

Mr. McGovern is an old favorite in Ithaca, having created an indelible impression on local theatre-goers when he played in the Little Theatre in 1925 with the well remembered New York Players. Friends and admirers have found the popular actor equally satisfying in the current productions of an all-too-brief engagement which terminates with the close of "The Acquittal."

Miss Wayland, a newcomer to Ithaca's theatrical fans, has proved herself a worthy co-star with Mr. McGovern. In "This Thing Called Love" and last week's play "Jonesy" her work has been charmingly realistic, and well in accord with her reputation as "one of the leading Stock actresses." "The Acquittal" has been selected because of its inherent and universal appeal. Everybody loves to see a young newspaper reporter solve a mystery which has foiled hardened detectives. The tense situation surrounding a man fighting for his life and another man fighting to avenge the death of his benefactor, with all the contingent circumstances to say nothing of a delightful love story running through the whole thing, making "The

Your Cayugan

IF every student could only see the drawings which the Hammersmith Kortmeyer Company has just sent, and which were made up especially for our own 1930 Cayugan! They are different! Then besides the special drawings for the opening section and division pages of the book and the cover design is an individual one made just for us. A 'stock cover' is not to be used this year. Up to the last of March we could only hope—but now we can be sure that our hopes will be realized. The ideas we wanted to use can be realities. First of all—the 1930 Cayugan is to be primarily a "picture Book" presenting to you new pictures of all the buildings, the deans and directors, the faculty, the student body, student organizations, fraternities and pictures of the various activities and social events of the year.

Because of the loyal support of over half of our student body, we have been able to compile a real "Memory Treasure Trove." Besides individual pictures of the Seniors, the Juniors too are to have individual pictures arranged in a somewhat similar manner. And as a new feature, the pictures of four most representative students as selected by popular student vote, are to be shown in a separate section.

During the next two weeks all the rest of the material for the book is to be put together and the final copy sent to the publishers. But this is YOUR book; if you have any snapshots you would care to have reprinted in the Cayugan—or any articles, either poetry or prose, which deserves a place in the book—won't you do your part by giving it to some member of the staff immediately?

We have until April 21st to place our definite order as to number—and this year there are to be no extra copies for sale. If you want a book your subscription must be in by that date. Every member of the staff is putting time and thought to make this Cayugan a success. We want it to please YOU. And in May, when the books are out, you will want one.

"The Acquittal" truly a "play of plays."

Cosima Wagner Dead

"London, March 31, 1930.—Cosima Wagner, wife of Richard Wagner and daughter of Franz Liszt, breathed her last today in the room of the Villa Wahnfried, at Bayreuth, which she had not left for years. She was ninety-three, virtually blind, and bereft of most of her faculties. Ever since a serious illness two years ago, when death was thought inevitable, Mme. Wagner's mental powers were seriously impaired. Even before than she lived only in the past, continually recalling events that happened long ago and at various periods of her career without being able to separate them by a sense of time. However, she lived to see and grasp the significance of the resumption of the Bayreuth Festival after the War, and was even able to attend some of the rehearsals on the arm of her daughter-in-law, Winifred Wagner. During the War, while Germany was cut off from the rest of the world she had undergone a serious illness, and in 1917 was reported dead throughout the world."

Mrs. Ernest Williams Honorary Member of Sigma Alpha Iota

EPSILON Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota takes keen pleasure in announcing Katherine Rankin Williams (Mrs. Ernest S. Williams), renowned cornetist, as a Chapter Honorary member.

Mrs. Williams is an internationally known artist, proclaimed by critics as the foremost woman cornetist of America. She is the leader of the famous "Gloria Trumpeters," a quartette which has been one of America's leading women's musical organizations for the past twelve years, and which is still being "booked solid" for months in advance. Of this quartette Dr. S. Parkes Cadman writes: "After ten years of constant association with me in religious services I am glad to testify to the splendid musical ability of the 'Gloria Trumpeters.' Their work is marked by sincerity of purpose, adaptability to all kinds of religious and social services, and a thorough appreciation of the noble ministry of music. There is no better organization of this kind before the public. Indeed, in my judgment, it has no equal."

In 1913, Mrs. Williams and her husband, famous cornet and trumpet soloist and distinguished orchestral and band conductor, now Dean of the Ithaca Military Band School, and one of the most prominent faculty members of

Barrere --- New Faculty Member Celebrates Anniversary

MR. GEORGE BARRERE, premier flutist, and director of the Barrere Little Symphony and Barrere Ensemble, who has been engaged by Dean Williams as a member of the faculty of the Band and Orchestra Summer Camp to be conducted by the Ithaca Military Band School, celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary in America with a series of three concerts given in New York by his Little Symphony.

The following is an excerpt from the Musical Courier review of the March 30th concert:

A large audience filled the Guild Theater on Sunday evening for the second of the series of three concerts which George Barrere and his Little Symphony are giving in commemoration of his twenty-fifth anniversary in America. The informality of the occasion was enjoyable, Mr. Barrere, in his simple and occasionally humorous way, explaining the works of the composers represented on the program: Rameau, Honnegger, Hadley, Bauer and Hennessy. When Emma Roberts, the charming soloist of the evening appeared, he also gave a brief description of her songs, all of which put the audience in a happy frame of mind. This was not necessary, for the program was interesting and finely rendered; but it was refreshing after a season of too many concerts of the same type.

this institution, made a tour around the world. At this time they were presented in concert in the leading cities of the Hawaiian Islands, Australia, India, Egypt and Europe, attracting the attention of European critics, impresarios and royalty. In London while playing at the Coliseum, the popular artists were signally honored by the King and Queen of England.

Mrs. Williams was a child genius and her career dates from the time she was five years of age. "Yankee Doodle" was the first piece with which she experimented, and when her grandfather, a teacher of voice, heard it, he foresaw great possibilities, and her musical training began immediately.

During her colorful career, Mrs. Williams has been associated with the finest organizations and players of her profession. While an acknowledged Cornet Virtuoso, she is an adept performer on many other instruments.

Epsilon Chapter feels honored to number this artist among her Honorary members. Plans are under way to initiate Mrs. Williams in the near future.

Alfred Patten '22 Very Successful

AMONG the vacation week visitors during the past week was Alfred Patten member of last years graduating class and editor of the 1929 Cayugan. Mr. Patten has spent the past year as a member of the faculty of the Tilton School for Boys in New Hampshire, and has been re-engaged in this capacity.

March 27, Mr. Patten played in a concert given by members of the faculty of the Tilton School. April 11 and 12 he will sing with a quartet which he has trained in Springfield and Hartford, Conn., at a Tilton re-union. He is also training a boys Glee Club which will give a series of concerts in that vicinity, and is planning an operatta for boys to be given at Commencement time.

The amalgamated Women's Clubs of New Hampshire are planning a concert entitled "A cycle of Songs" to be presented in the near future and Mr. Patten has been engaged to play the accompaniments.
